FOREWORD

To Carolina:

Here's to the land of the long leaf pine,
The summer land where the sun doth shine,
Where the weak grow strong,
And the strong grow great,
Here's to down home, the Old North
State.

To

who contributed much to the three phases of school life—athletics, administration, and scholarship; and who, although not now connected with the school, still shows great interest in its activities, we gratefully dedicate this Black and Gold.

The lighthouse, always a synonym for progress, is a god-send to the sailors who ply the coast of Carolina, for here are the most dangerous capes on the western side of the Atlantic. Towering above the frothing green of the ocean, they present a beautiful scene, indeed. As the light is the guide at sea, so is Pilot a guide on land. One of the most beautiful mountains of the Blue Ridge, it is also a challenge to the spirit of men of today and reminder of yesterday.

Administration

The capitol building of North Carolina typifies the progress of the governmental system of this state. Basically the same, the governing system has grown from the size of the small building at Edenton to the more dignified and larger government of the first capitol at Raleigh; and finally it increased to the complex set-up which occupies the present building on State Street.

William Sidney Porter—better known as O. Henry—Calvin H. Wiley, and Charles B. Aycock are all symbolic of the highest type of leadership in North Carolina. O. Henry reached the heights of short story with his human betrayals of mankind. Calvin H. Wiley is symbolic of the true leader in the field of education, while Charles Aycock may easily be considered the statesman of the "Old North State."

POEM OF JANUARY CLASS OF 1935

Lois Walker, Poet

A SALUTE TO CAROLINA

Carolina, we salute you for your deeds of yore;
For your gallant sons and daughters who have gone before;
For your mountainsides and seashore with the purest race.
Carolina, we salute you--nature's favored place!
Foes there be within your borders who would stamp out youth;
Who have muddied your pure waters, damming up the truth.
They would crush traditions sacred, and our hearts harass;
But we pledge you, Carolina, that "they shall not pass!"
The lowered torch shall in our lifted hands rise higher;
Generations yet unborn reach their hearts' desire.
We shall not rest till every eye in childhood's day is bright,
And Carolina's waters are purified in light.
Carolina, we salute you for the days to be;
For the era that will herald "My Country 'Tis of Thee!"
We, your sons and daughters, our allegiance pledge anew,
To God and Carolina we will evermore be true!

HISTORY OF JANUARY CLASS, 1935

Lawrence Vickers, Historian

Now the History of the Class of Five and Thirty, of the Richard Joshua Reynolds High School of the City of Winston-Salem, County of Forsyth, State of North Carolina, is in this wise:

In the beginning, in the one and thirtieth year of our Lord, in this first month, there entered into this Land of Learning one-hundred twenty seekers of knowledge. Some came from the West, some from the East, some from the North, and some from the South. From the four corners of the city did they come, where they had been busily engaged in storing their minds with the honey of wisdom. Most were green and fresh, and a few were from the halls of instructions.

As they did enter this land, they were received with wild welcomings and rejoicings by those who it was decreed should henceforth lead them up slippery by-ways of knowledge.

Likewise they were received with malicious glee by a band of vampires called "Sophomores", who with their fierce taste for freshman blood did pounce upon them daily, and did cause them to suffer great things.

And as their trials and tribulations did increase, they saw just cause to choose a brave leader, Lonnie Vickers, to deliver them from their oppression. And after some months, all eyes were turned toward attaining the heights of the Sophomore Class. The Weak were afraid, and the Strong were mighty in their efforts.

Now at the beginning of the sophomore year a new band of youths did come up from the four corners of the City, and the Class of Five and Thirty, in the new dignity of their promotion, remembered the days of their own greenness, and inflicted great trials upon them. At the beginning of the second year, it being the custom to choose one of the mighty and wise to guide them, the Class of Five and Thirty did choose Miss Margaret Bailey as sponsor. Being full of wisdom and knowledge, she spake unto them saying: "Organize yourselves into a class, that you may gain in strength." She spake, and it was done, and they chose another, one Anthony Disher, for President of the Class of Five and Thirty. And as the Class did journey through the land, behold they overtook fair maidens and stalwart youths who had strayed from their classes, with which they had set forth. Seeing their great loneliness and sorrow, the Class of Five and Thirty did look upon them with pity and gathered them in. Thus ended the second year.

At the beginning of the third year the Class of Five and Thirty did gird on their swords of courage and did put forth bigger efforts than ever to go on and win a seat in the favored Senior Class. But lo and behold, a strange infirmity did seize a certain E. W. Dease, a member of this class, which did cause him to act with much fierceness and strangeness of manner. Wise men and doctors from far lands were called to look upon him, and one pronounced it "Football", another "Basketball", and another, "Baseball", and all did assure the frightened leaders and members of the malady, while it needs must be contagious and likewise sometimes fatal, was yet a necessary evil; not one of them knew the cure.

So with many anxious fears and dire foreboding, did the members allow the disease to run its natural course, and lo, said E. W. Dease was neither killed nor seriously injured, whereas there was great rejoicing.

And it came to pass, at the end of the third year Mr. John Watson Moore, the principal, who had thus far traveled in their lead, was called to fill the highest place in this system of education, and did go. There was much grief and sorrow for this loss. Now it so happened that there dwell in our midst a man of much

PROPHECY OF JANUARY CLASS OF 1935

Hubert Couch and James Cohn, Prophets

Scene: A fortune teller's booth.

A representative of the January Class of 1935 knocks and enters the booth of the fortune teller.

Fortune Teller: Enter, I pray, whoever thou art. What seekest thou? Thy need impart!

Representative: Solemn and wise prophet, guardian of the unseen things to be, the January Class of 1935 of the R. J. R. High School is about to pass forever out of school life into life's school. Roll back the curtain of the future, I beseech thee, and prophesy unto me, as their representative, what the future of each of the fair young women and brave young men is to be. I am told that by mere contact with the personal belongings of individuals thou art able to read the future and accurately foretell coming events. Look into the years to come and relieve our anxious hearts of the worry that weighs them down because we cannot guess what is in store for us.

Fortune Teller: Thou art brave indeed to dare to look down the vista of things to be. But as thou hast spoken—as thou hast dared to tempt the gods by thus challenging their revelations of thyself and thy classmates,—listen, and it shall be prophesied unto thee, even as thou has said, and by these will I reveal unto thee the fortune of those from whom they have come. (Takes first handkerchief, a silk one,—holds it to the forehead a second) Ah! thirty, forty years hence, I see a banking institution, the president, riding in his aeroplane, counting out his money, wearing his diamonds—who is it? His name? O yes, I see now, Baine Coe, and his assistants, W. H. Leonard, Leslie Payne, George Clodfelter, Clyde Williard, and Joseph Barbee, who learned that one can't work in a bank and take home samples.

(Takes second handkerchief, a lace one) Ah, the dainty lady of society, envied and flattered by all, the queen of every gathering, the belle of every ball—Evelyn Newton.

(Takes third, a white cotton, with holes in it) Now I feel so strong, so brave so bold! A woman of strong mind, strong will, and stronger temper, a lecturer on a strong subject,—an old maid demonstrating her independence of man. Her name escapes me—wait—oh, yes! It is Mildred Barbee.

(Fourth, a red bandanna) A strong breeze and a whiff of far-off prairies. A girl of the plains—a pioneer of distant wilderness and vastness—riding bare backed over the broad open spaces—Flora Buchanan.

(Fifth, large fine linen) A school of learning and a noble professor before his class. It is the R. J. R. High School. Why, what is that they call him? Professor Earl Robertson. On the personnel of his faculty I see Carl Beck, head of the Commercial Department; Mary Alice Burns, head of the Math. Department; Alvis Patterson, head of the English Department; and Madge Burton, head of the Latin Department.

(Sixth, black bordered) Ah! I feel like crying. I must cry—I must—this woman's grief overwhelms me. Surely it is some lonely widow, mourning her husband. No, not so. I see nothing like that! Only a fair bride weeping the loss of her pet poodle. Who is the bride? Kathleen Anderson, and the groom, the henpecked E. W. Dease.

(Seventh, large blue bordered) Hear the news boy running down the street! What does he say? Listen! I catch it now. Extra! Extra! All about the big battle! Cuban revolution led by Senor Abalardo Garces Capote, for the purpose of installing his uncle as president of the island. Under the royal palms which sedately sway under Cuban stars, fringing the moon-kissed beach, unmindful of the revolution are Ruth Lee Adams,

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF JANUARY CLASS

Elizabeth Widdifield, Testator

We, the members of the mid-year graduating class of '35, being in accordance with the laws of the state, of fairly sound mind and memory (that is, all except Carl Beck, Esquire) do hereby give and bequeath all our worldly goods and possessions, without having accepted bribes from anyone or in the least being influenced by partiality.

ARTICLE I

Item I. To the faculty, who has become distinguished by guiding us through High School in such a short time as four years, we wish to express our deep gratitude and to bequeath any talents found in the personnel of our class—including our bluffers and chewing gum fiends—in the hope that they may find them invaluable in dealing with future classes.

Item II. Again, we give and bequeath to our beloved faculty all the amazing knowledge and startling information that we have furnished them for the past year in our examination papers. We know that much which we have imparted to them in this way must have been entirely new to them, as well as to all students and teachers everywhere, and would throw much new light on many a hitherto familiar line of thought, throughout the whole world of science and learning. If the faculty see fit, they are hereby authorized to give out such of this information as the world is ready to receive. We trust they will feel also at perfect liberty to make use of all such bits of wisdom and enlightenment for the education of the classes to come after us. This, of course, is left entirely to their personal discretion.

ARTICLE II

Item I. To the Juniors, we leave the many Senior privileges, in the hope that they may cherish them as conscientiously as we have.

Item II. To the Freshmen, we leave our self-control, in the hope that it may be of use to them when being shoved, advised, or warned by upperclassmen.

ARTICLE III

The individual bequests are as follows:

Item I. To William Singletary, Earl Robertson leaves his delightfully pleasant laugh—it is known to have vexed many an ear-drum.

Item II. Mildred Barbee bequeaths her flirting ability to Alice Rose.

Item III. Kathleen Anderson wishes to leave to Jessie Futrell her senior dignity (Any information as to the whereabouts of said bequeathal will be appreciated.)

Item IV. To Elizabeth Carroll and Bill Brunt, Margaret Clodfelter and Lawrence Vickers leave their popularity.

Item V. Ellen McLain leaves her ability to hold her tongue and her shy modest manner to Edna Earl Clinard.

Item VI. To Dorothy McCuiston, Madge Burton leaves her charming beauty.

Item VII. To M. G. Brown, Carl Beck leaves his excess height.

Item VIII. Ruth Lee Adams leaves her place among superlatives as "Most Dignified" to Laura Crim.

Item IX. To Paul Morris, that handsome little junior, Wade Grubbs leaves his neat little misplaced eye-brow.

Item X. Opal Hall wills her intellectuality to Price Cornelius, so that Price may sit on the stage at graduation exercises before many more years have slipped by.

We do hereby appoint Miss Annie Preston Heilig, who has been our class sponsor, executrix of this, our Last Will and Testament.

In Witness whereof, we do hereonto set our hand and seals, this eleventh day of January, 1935.

POEM OF MAY CLASS, 1935

Avenelle Gray, Poet

There are places on life's highway
Where men may pause and rest,
And view with thought the journey they have run.
The weak may lose their courage,
But the wise with added zest
Will know their upward climb has begun.

Our road leads onward to a future goal
Where greater tasks await.
Strong men will gladly seize the chance to serve,
While cowards falter, and with
Fainting hearts bemoan their fate,
And pray that fortune bring them great renown.

What is Commencement but one goal
That points the way for youth;
That leads to fields of service great and bold;
To meet the challenge ever flung
By travelers who have journeyed on?—
A call to follow in the way of truth.

HISTORY OF MAY CLASS, 1935

Warren Spear, Historian

In the early days of the seventeenth century there arrived in N. C. a body of people who were destined to become in history the Lost Colony. In like manner there arrived in R. J. R. High School in 1931 a group of gals and gents who felt that they were the Lost Colony. Those people of the first colony felt the need of a strong leader while they were in the new country. We also felt the need of a strong leader and made the selection of Dick Myers. We, like those pioneers, began to explore these new regions. With much fear and awe we went as far as the first floor, then the second, and finally with a grand sweep of nerve we ventured to the third floor. We, like those pioneers, had to start from the bottom and build up. Thus ended the first of our four periods.

As the colony had been knocked about by England so we had been knocked about by upper classmen. We decided, as the colonists, that we were as good as those who molested us so we declared our independence from the title of freshmen. Those were hard days as we fought to shake off this name. Our leading scholars during this period, Roy Hege and Tom Lumpkin, together with some of our number who were talented in athletics, drama, and journalism led the attack by showing what we could do.

Finding no fault with our class president of the previous year and feeling that a person of experience should have the burden of this office during these times, we reelected Dick Myers as our leader. Very successfully ended our second period.

Just as our ancestral dwellers of N. C. entered into a period of Civil War, did we enter into a modified form of Civil War. Our aim was to show our strength against the seniors. We placed talent from our class in everything the seniors did. To lead us through this period we chose a modern Joan of Arc, Caroline Pfohl. Who won, if anyone did, was never decided; however, to show that it was all a friendly affair, we gave one of the grandest Junior-Seniors ever presented by a Junior class. During this time we were well represented in all fields such as athletics, journalism, and orations. In the latter Hugh Cash, one of our members, took first place over many seniors.

To come to a modern period such as this, improvement after improvement must take place. We feel that we have improved to the extent that here in our last period we may rightfully be called seniors. In the modern manner we feel we are "the top." We wear stars in our crown which are derived from all fields of extra-curricular activities. Likewise, we have leaders in both houses of the government of the school. We boast also of our class officers with Charlie Wood leading the list. May we be inspired to do greater things by our adventurous ancestors, the settlers of North Carolina.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

By Andrew Sutton, Testator

We, the gay Class of May 1935, being of weak mind and doubtful body, knowing our end is near, and realizing that we can't take all of our worldly possessions with us, do together propose to leave said possessions to our less fortunate underclassmen, faculty members and principal in this, our last will and testament, this 17th day of May 1935.

Article I, Section I;

To the May Class of 1936, we bequeath our faded colors and withered rosebuds.

Section II;

Grateful to our honorable in-laws, the Faculty, who have given us the blessings of an education, we hereby proclaim, that if ignorance were bliss, we are on our way to paradise.

Section III;

To Miss Ruth Ford, our class sponsor, we leave a great deal of gray hairs and a supreme blessing for the future.

Section IV;

To our adopted children, the entire student body, we bequeath the fragments of the Honor System, Student Council, and the House of Representatives to be disregarded as we have endeavored to do.

Article II, Section I;

To the incoming children, who will next year be seniors, barring examinations and other forms of torture, we leave with pleasure that from which we never received pleasure; the Senior privileges, standards of honor, dignity, and all other things that have meant nothing to us.

Section II;

To Principal Claude R. Joyner, we leave the privilege and honor of running the school as we are tired of so doing.

Section III;

To the evermore noble Juniors, we bequeath our seats in the center row of the auditorium, and hope that they may sleep as soundly in them as we have.

Section IV;

To the poor, uncherished and unripened Great Grandchildren, (commonly called freshmen), we leave our consolations that they will have to give up the attic and come down and listen to a few lectures on anything from the barking of a dog to one that consists of the amount of alcohol one carries in his system.

Section V;

To Edna Earl Clinard and Marguerite Pegram, Maxine Pusey and Laura "Snake" Crim leave respectively their art of being able to broadcast to the world, without any mechanical device whatsoever.

Section VI;

To Martha Rawlings and Frances Morgan, Peggy Bowen leaves her title of Miss Versatility to be used in a creative way; however, the title must not be abused.

Section VII;

To "Mutt" Dize and Mebane Croom, Norris Edwards and John D. Slawter leave their creative reading to be used in digesting Tarzan and Tom Swift.

Section VIII;

To Dick Goolsby, Mary Jane Lindley leaves her superlatives since Dick is so timid and shy.

Section IX;

To Bill Tudor, "Ace" Rickenbacker, and Dick Krentzman, Joyner Burns leaves medals and other accessories for his undying truth which has been of great concern to many.

We hereby appoint as administrator of our estate, Mr. Thomas Foote, whose efficiency, thoroughness and cleanliness is unquestionably, undebatedly, and undoubtedly absolute.

To which we set our hand and seal:

Andrew Sutton, Testator

Witnesses:

Napoleon Bonaparte
Madame Du Barry
Joe Penner

PROPHECY OF MAY CLASS

Ray Williams, Prophet

A class prophecy—that's enough to give anyone a nightmare! Would a narrative of this nightmare suffice the curiosity of my fellow students?

Well, as I was feeling the effects of the night before—being very sleepy, I decided that studies could wait. The endless drone of the teacher's voice, in which not even a seven year veteran of this institution could sleep soundly, was the stimulus of this nightmare and tale.

As the drone faded, it was replaced by the cry of a newsboy on the streets of New York. Jack Gibson, the newsboy in question, was frantically trying to satisfy what seemed to be half of New York's reading public. All were trying to get a copy of the edition. After using some of Coach Hawn's football tactics, I managed to get one. It was dated May 12, 1965. The headline read: "President M. G. Brown Declares War". As I read further I learned that Dick Myers, the All-American football star, in the official capacity of Commander-in-chief of the army, calls for nation-wide conscriptions. Also Miss Peggy Bowen, the old-maid nurse, issues an order for all pretty nurses to prepare to sail on twenty-four hours notice—that is, all except Mary Jane Lindley who will spend this war by being the model Goddess of Peace for the famous artist and sculptor, Clifton Naughton. Since "wars are won at home", I decided that I would win the war for us. Just to keep from loafing, I applied to Mr. Charles Wood, the munitions magnate, for a job counting the cannons as they came out. As the war progressed, "Stanby" Bray turned traitor to the cause for the glorified job as janitor, cleaning and sweeping out the enemy's trenches. Being the class prophet, I noticed many honorable positions which were filled by those of the May graduating class of 1935. Among these was Miss Fannie Peckler, the head of the vast secretarial department of the Wood Cannon and Munitions Co.

Miss Laura Crim living up to the name of "Snake" was spying on the gallant enemy's army. She got more information than she could remember. What a woman!

It was good to see and hear of something besides war—Hugh P. Cash is announced as candidate for Governorship of North Carolina. He filled the bill.

Among the war correspondents of the day are Ethel Mae Angelo and Odell Salmon. They never make a mistake because they write with safety pins.

The war ended as suddenly as it had begun! Eugene Liipfert, the notorious lawyer-politician, has just concluded negotiations with the French diplomat, Margaret Horne, the first battle of words ever won from the "weaker" sex.

After the armistice, Mr. Fred Kirby was appointed to collect the war debts. He was successful in almost every case. The method? Simple, he threatened to challenge each head of the governments to a fist fight. Professor John Rankin has been employed to find ways to spend the money.

Warden Horace Raper of state prison announces that he has perfected a new method of criminal correction. He has started an honor system—doing away with bars and guards.

Doctor Bill Payne has become famous for his cheap substitute for gasoline.

Wallace Dunn, unemployed since paper shirts put all the laundries out of business, is running for president on the Unemployed Party ticket. Miss Alice Rose is being run as Vice President to draw the votes of all the unmarried ladies. Irvin Cobb is furnishing financial backing for the campaign.

So far removed is the delicate magnificence of the Duke Chapel from the rude, red school house of by-gone days, we hardly consider them together. Yet, although the former represents the finest in education, and the one-room school, the poorest, the chapel sprang from the red shanty. The modern school combines the basic teaching methods of the red school with the modernness of the university; it combines the best of both of the two systems.

Modern aviation was born in North Carolina. It was on the wind-swept wastes of Kitty Hawk that man, through two brothers—Wilbur and Orville Wright—conquered the air. Since then North Carolina has continued to foster and to promote this latest achievement of man over his surroundings.

North Carolina has a great distinction musically. The North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, directed by Lamar Stringfield, himself a Pulitzer prize winner, became the first state controlled symphony. In the field of jazz, we find three outstanding maestros—Jan Garber, Hal Kemp, and Kay Kyser—native sons of the Old North State. Along with the other Southern states, North Carolina furnished the birthplace of the only true American music—the negro spirituals and melodies.

REYNOLDS HIGH SCHOOL PRINT SHOP

A full time vocational program was carried on in the print shop this year—all classes being conducted on double period or "trade printing" schedule. Students in advanced courses had the privilege of working in various commercial printing establishments as a part of their trade training; eight shops participated in this.

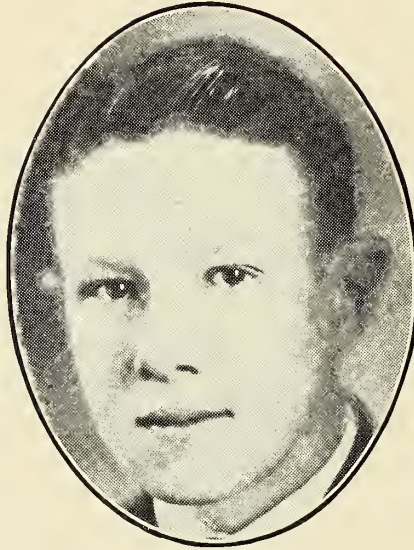

A night school class was conducted for those not enrolled in day school. The Printers Club continued its work. The first annual Printers Club award for outstanding work in printing was given this year; Perry Ellis was the winner.

This Black and Gold is probably the largest single job ever produced in this shop. "Pine Whispers" and "The Scribbler" were also printed as well as most of the job printing for the schools and all other city departments. Work in bookbinding was introduced this year—over 200 volumes being bound for students and teachers.

Mr. W. M. Crawley was secured for presswork on the annual. All other work was done by students and instructor. Henry Pleasants, Perry Ellis and Billy Foy deserve special mention for their work.

These three unique enlargements of well-known household necessities, the coffee-pot, a bureau, and a chair, have struck a new note in advertising. The coffee pot, steeped in interesting stories of old Salem, was the trademark for a tinner; the bureau represents an industry and a city, High Point, the furniture city; the chair trade-marks Thomasville and the largest chair factory in the United States.

Through the genius of two men, North Carolina has seized rightfully the crown of one of the major industries of the world. The golden weed tobacco has been the keynote of North Carolina's progress, and she in turn has developed it to its place of prominence. The modern factory is a concrete memorial to the man who brought tobacco from the smallness of the tobacco barn to a world wide industry. It has given men and women in all walks of life unlimited pleasure.

CAROLINA

Carolina! Carolina! Heaven's blessings attend her!

While we live we will cherish, protect,
and defend her.

Tho' the scorner may sneer at, and witlings defame her,

Our hearts swell with gladness whenever we name her.

Hurrah! Hurrah! The Old North State forever!

Hurrah! Hurrah! the good Old North
State.

2.

Tho' she envies not others their merited glory,

Say whose name stands the foremost in Liberty's story?

Tho' too true to herself e'er to crouch to oppression,

What can yield to just rule more loyal submission?

Chorus.

3.

Plain and artless her sons, but whose doors open faster

At the knock of a stranger, or the tale of disaster?

How like to the rudeness of their dear native mountains,

With rich ore in their bosoms and life
in their fountains.

Chorus.

4.

And her daughters, the Queen of the forest resemble

So graceful, so constant, yet to gentlest
breath trembling,

And true lightwood at heart, let the match be applied them,

How they kindle and flame! oh! none
know but who've tried them.

Chorus.

5.

Then let all who love us love the land land that we live in,

(As happy a region as on this side of Heaven.)

Where Plenty and Freedom, Love and Peace smile before us,

Raise aloud, raise together the heart thrilling chorus.

Chorus.

AMONG N. C. AUTHORS

Thomas Clayton Wolfe was condemned in his home town of Asheville for a book written by him of his life, family and friends. The names were barely changed and various characters were easily recognized. That book—"Look Homeward Angel"—however, won the Pulitzer Prize.

Wilbur Daniel Steele—North Carolina's present contribution to literature—a writer of short stories—was born in Greensboro, N. C.

One of the greatest Negro poets started his career at Chapel Hill by writing love poems for the boys there in school.

Paul Green, born at Lillington, N. C., was a winner of the Pulitzer Prize. His book was "In Abraham's Bosom".

John Henry Boner, a poet of N. C. born in Winston-Salem, was one time connected with Journal and Sentinel. His most famous work was "Whispering Pines".

Miss Josephine Hutchison has been dropped from the payroll of the Erie Canal Co. because she left the canal locks open all night and let the Great Lakes run into the ocean. She confessed that since she was not married, she wished to dry up Niagara Falls to ruin the honeymoon of her rival Geraldine Tuttle. The third party in the triangle is Charles Loman, movie and stage star.

I received an invitation to visit one of the newly discovered wonders of the world—The Gateway to the Underworld. Mrs. Nancie Dixon (she made her husband change his name) has built a wall around it and is charging admission for "a glimpse into the future." I knelt on the brink and peered down, looking for more of my classmates. A long arm reached out of the pit and pulled me down. For some unknown reason I was not afraid, only irritated. I landed with a thud and waked to find myself in history class instead of where I had expected.

A Real Man's smoke

Some years ago a way was discovered to make pipe smoking even more of a pleasure than it had ever been before, through taking the "bite" out of smoking tobacco. This discovery, made right here in Winston-Salem, changed the smoking habits of millions of men and led to the present world-wide esteem for Prince Albert. You are missing the full delight of pipe smoking if you don't smoke "P. A." It is cooler... burns slower... tastes better. And Prince Albert does not bite the tongue.

HISTORY OF THE JANUARY CLASS OF 1935 (Continued from page 36)

learning, one Mr. Claude Joyner, who, hearing of the departure from the post of Mr. John Watson Moore, did consent to take and lead us on our travels through the Land of Learning.

This the fourth year in the history of the great and wonderful Class of Five and Thirty has been one of hard labor and but little resting by the wayside; for preparations have been made ready for us to take our final departure from the Land. Then it happened that the members of the Class, as their greatness grew, desired to have written in the sand of time, so that all might see, their achievements, hopes, and fears. Therefore they appointed Lawrence Vickers as historian, and Hubert Couch as prophet. It also happened that a certain fair maiden by the name of Lois Walker, having been given the one talent of making words rhyme one with the other, was beseeched to gather paper and pencil and bottles of ink, and write for us the words that we shall carry in our hearts. The maiden listened to our supplication and said, "Let there be words." And it was so. Now there was in the travels of this class a certain amount of worldly goods gathered together. Straightway the Class, abhorring waste, decided to will these goods to the undergraduates; so a certain member, called Elizabeth Widdifield, was appointed testator. And it also came to pass that a great shout did go up from the throats of the Class and the words thereof did find favor with the members of the Class and adopted it as a class motto: "It's good to know; it's better to do; it's best to be." And behold, they did proclaim this motto throughout all the halls and corridors.

So it has come to pass that of the one hundred and twenty that entered this land in the year One and Thirty, only seventy eight will depart, for many have fallen by the wayside.

Four years hath the Class of Five and Thirty sojourned in the land, and gathered in large portions the fruits from the Tree of Knowledge and reaped a fair reward.

Opal Hall, Clarice Bodenheimer, Frances Shermer, who were lured to the tropical island by the fatally irresistible magnetism of their erstwhile Cuban classmate.

(Eighth, small embroidered) Now I see an immense bill board, and what does it say? A second great torch-singer of the day, Virginia Cook is still carrying the torch.

(Ninth, plain, white, small) A large building: Why, it is a convent! A fair lady, disappointed in some love affair, has become a nun and devotes her life to going about the world doing good. Her name is lost now, for she is called "Sister Maria", but I see her face and she is Georgia Hassel.

(Tenth and Eleventh, plain white) Two more handkerchiefs, and they seem to cling together. I take them up at once and see two happy wives making sunshine and music within their walls.

I see them exchanging confidences over the fence as to this or that domestic difficulty, or culinary or maternal triumph, and see how, even in their marriage could never be divided, who were so inseparable as Mayme Dowell and Camilla Sprinkle.

(A small piece of rope) I see a crowd of people applauding. Their eyes speak hero worship. Who is this daring young gentleman on the flying trapeze? I recognize the physique of D. B. Grubbs. A troop of jugglers is traveling with him—Raymond Kirkman, Thomas Johnson, Harold Petree, Henry Bridges, and Charles Knighten.

(Pin) This pin is the emblem of a newly organized society for the further prevention of deempleophobia, organized by Clyde Hunt. Prominent members of this society are Richard Davis, Russel Berthold, Ed Peddycord, and E. G. Self.

(Ribbon) I find myself within the portals of the Hall of Fame. I am dazzled by the phenomenal talent in this por-

THE LIFE OF A FORD

Bumps are real, and roads are earnest
But the junk pile's not the end
Though rust thou art to rust returneth
Are thou not a trusty friend?

Gas you burn, and oil you guzzle
Heedless of the great expense
Sparks, and bulbs to light your snuzzle,—
An awful ride my recompense!

Tired your limbs, un-tired your wheels,
Your frame unfit for spring time thrills
Rust thou art, to rust returneth.

FOR HANES SHORTS!

HERE'S cheering news for hips that never have a free hand. They'll get plenty of play in HANES Shorts! You can stoop, stand, stretch, or walk and HANES won't ever balk! That's because HANES Shorts don't hug—they hang; drape in a free, easy-flowing line from your waist to the hems in the legs. And get THIS about the colors: We guarantee they'll never run out on the job!

If you want a shirt good enough to go with your shorts, you better ask for a HANES. They're elastic-knit in a soft, cool fabric that washing can't make limp. The minute you put a HANES on your back, it snuggles right up to your body—as spruce and clean-cut as you'd want! And look how deep down the tail goes . . . so far below your waistline that it can't roll up and bulge! Gentlemen, that is comfort. See your HANES dealer today. P. H.
